

Maharlika: 4th-Wave, 2025

lyrics by helena yasmin

and everything's fine i know that i am.

and good things take time where there's
a plan.

and i'm looking at you now with a line in
the sand.

holding out for a moment and a safe place to land.

how'd i let this go and happen again? tired of being handled and then losing a friend.

got promised forever, and
then it just ends.

oh what am i missing?
what am i missing?

what am i missing?

a water and a whiskey can keep you feeling tipsy. the rest is up to history, to sit and think is risky.

so find some understanding, a safer place for landing. i'll save a place
with hands held tightly, stay surrounded...

you just need a dream, something that you're drawn to. whatever it may bring, need it to love you back.
and if we drift apart, it doesn't seem
that hard.

oh let me be, please let me be your lighthouse.

semi-free but I'm
wandering

desire identity but it's scarcity and it's scaring me...

direction lost but not quite aimless, where's the
compass that i'm chasing?

i'm free but i'm wandering....

See You In Another Life.

smiling but i can't breathe, head and chest is ringing. at least heaven has gained another blessing.

helpless what can i do? your dreams you laid down in truth. heavy is a moment shared without you.

ripped away, not okay. left to navigate the black.
maybe tomorrow i'll face the facts. wishful
thinking can't bring you back.

won't tell the truth, say i'm alright. let today
drag into night. waiting for a little light.

but i'll see you in another life...

be gentle in the simple things, learning,
holding, listening

it's so easy..

life's so easy.

so easy.

but now i'm floating, fly-in on a tightrope and i don't really know what way to go.

i know this all seem like it's a joke
when you're coughing up smoke and dad's lost his hope on you. crazy, mum thinks that you're lazy. the
thing is it's hazy, but god made me

the way that i am

i am

i am

i am

i am

i am

Short film commissioned artists and w/ mentors & facilitators.

